

The By-Laws of The International Behaviorology Institute (TIBI) promote a scientific “Behavior Literacy graduation requirement of appropriate content and depth at all levels of educational institutions from kindergarten through university.” For this to be possible, and to ensure that behaviorology makes its full contributions to humanity, society needs many more trained behaviorologists. One purpose of TIBI is to help achieve these goals.

The Institute operates within the framework of American higher education. This system has the four basic degree levels of Associate, Baccalaureate, Masters, and Doctorate. Within this overall structure, the Institute runs several certificate programs. The teaching and organization of these programs stress contingency-based instructional design and technology derived from the contingency analysis in behaviorological science.

The Institute designs its programs to deliver increasingly comprehensive training in the foundations and practices of behaviorologists. The programs serve a number of audiences. These range from (a) those who wish to fulfill a minimal Behavior Literacy graduation requirement, to (b) those who are majoring in behaviorology at an undergraduate level, to (c) those who seek specialty certificates in verbal behavior, or autism interventions, or companion animal training, to (d) those who, as professionals working or studying in another discipline or field, would inform their efforts (e.g., to solve global problems) with input from behaviorology, to (e) those who are studying behaviorology at the graduate level.

These certificate programs incorporate scientifically sound instructional design components including (a) managing contingencies through which students meet established criteria, (b) allowing students some leeway in completing courses at their own pace, and (c) encouraging students to begin their next course immediately, without reference to calendar semesters. The courses, and the contents of courses, required for each of these certificates will evolve as behaviorology itself evolves (hence these program descriptions are subject to change).

Find enrollment applications, for either courses or certificates, at www.behaviorology.org on the Education: Current Courses page or the Education: Current Certificates page. This is the Institute’s website, where you can also find far greater detail about behaviorology, the Institute, courses, certificates, and many other topics of interest.

The International Behaviorology Institute TIBI Certificates

*Academic programs
to train behaviorologists
and thereby support the cultural contributions of behaviorology*

Course Requirements for some Certificates

BLC (Behavior Literacy Certificate)

Prerequisite: High school diploma or equivalent

BEHG 100 Child Rearing Principles & Practices
BEHG 210 Introduction to Behaviorology I
BEHG 211 Introduction to Behaviorology II

ABC (Associate of Behaviorology Certificate)

Prerequisite: BLC or equivalent

BEHG 110 Introduction to Behaviorology Terminology
BEHG 330 Companion Animal Training
BEHG 350 Behaviorology Philosophy & History
BEHG 405 Basic Autism Intervention Methods

BLBC (Baccalaureate Level Behaviorology Certificate)

Prerequisite: ABC or equivalent

BEHG 340 Introduction to Verbal Behavior
BEHG 425 Classroom Management and Preventing School Violence
BEHG 455 Behavioral Thanatology and Dignified Dying
BEHG 480 Green Contingency Engineering
3 BEHG elective courses
BEHG 541 Advanced Verbal Behavior [As is commonly accepted, a graduate-level course or two is allowed at the end of a Bachelor-level program sequence.]

PSBC (Professional Studies in Behaviorology Certificate)

BEHG 100 Child Rearing Principles & Practices
BEHG 110 Introduction to Behaviorology Terminology
BEHG 210 Introduction to Behaviorology I
BEHG 211 Introduction to Behaviorology II
BEHG 350 Behaviorology Philosophy & History
2 BEHG elective courses
BEHG 512 Advanced Behaviorology I
BEHG 513 Advanced Behaviorology II

VBC (Verbal Behavior Certificate)

BEHG 110 Introduction to Behaviorology Terminology
BEHG 210 Introduction to Behaviorology I
BEHG 211 Introduction to Behaviorology II
BEHG 340 Introduction to Verbal Behavior
BEHG 512 Advanced Behaviorology I
BEHG 513 Advanced Behaviorology II
BEHG 541 Advanced Verbal Behavior

EAIC (Effective Autism Intervention Certificate)

BEHG 100 Child Rearing Principles & Practices
BEHG 110 Introduction to Behaviorology Terminology
BEHG 210 Introduction to Behaviorology I
BEHG 211 Introduction to Behaviorology II
BEHG 405 Basic Autism Intervention Methods
BEHG 425 Classroom Management & Preventing School Violence

ATC (Animal Training Certificate)

BEHG 110 Introduction to Behaviorology Terminology
BEHG 210 Introduction to Behaviorology I
BEHG 211 Introduction to Behaviorology II
BEHG 330 Companion Animal Training

ABTC (Animal Behavior Technology Certificate)

BEHG 110 Introduction to Behaviorology Terminology
BEHG 210 Introduction to Behaviorology I
BEHG 211 Introduction to Behaviorology II
BEHG 330 Companion Animal Training
BEHG 350 Behaviorology Philosophy & History
BEHG 430 Resolving Problem Animal Behavior
BEHG 435 Performance Management & Preventing Workplace Violence

MLBC (Masters Level Behaviorology Certificate)

DLBC (Doctoral Level Behaviorology Certificate)

Find details for the MLBC and DLBC at www.behaviorology.org under the Education: Current Certificates page.

