

Table of Contents for the book, About Science, Life, and Reality, by Lawrence Fraley*

PART I: The Role of Philosophy in a Scientific Perspective on Behavioral Phenomena ... 3	Traditional Sociality and Its Counterpart from the Internal Perspective ... 92
Science and Culture ... 5	Neural Behavior, Energy Streams, and Reality ... 95
Natural Science and Its Behaviorological Component ... 7	Conclusion ... 119
The History of Behaviorology ... 16	PART IV: Contrasting the Implications of the New Internal Perspective with those of the Traditional Perspective ... 123
The Cultural Success of Organized Science and Responses from its Competition ... 19	Cooperative Natural Sciences ... 127
The Organization of both Natural Science and its Alternatives for their Respective Cultural Roles ... 23	Behaviorology and Neural Physiology: Adjacent Scientific Neighbors ... 127
The Academic Management of the Conflicting Priorities ... 36	A Summary and Review of Reality ... 129
The Great Mystery of Life ... 43	Starting Inquiries with Better Fundamental Assumptions ... 138
The Tenacious Reliance on Personal Mini-Deities ... 45	Emergent Commonality Amid Individual Isolation ... 145
Summary: Cultural Problems and Their Solution via Science ... 48	The Mystery of Social Behavior ... 145
Transition to Parts II-IV ... 54	Environmental Reality ... 152
PART II: Reality and the Interdisciplinary Approach Required to Comprehend it, with Implications for Sentience and Sociality ... 57	Resolution of the Traditional and Internal Perspectives ... 159
The Traditional Perspective ... 59	PART V: Conclusions ... 163
Changing the Perspective ... 71	Science ... 165
A Review Featuring an Example ... 80	Life ... 169
Summary and Conclusion ... 85	Reality ... 175
PART III: A Further Recourse to Behaviorological Principles for Analyzing Soe Implications of Traditional Reality ... 89	Endnotes ... 189
Cultural Seduction ... 91	About the Author ... 216 ✻

---

*(2019) New York: Page Publishing. (TOC assembled by Stephen Ledoux, upon receiving a copy that lacked a TOC.) Address correspondence either to ledoux@canton.edu or to the author of the book, Lawrence Fraley, at lfraley@citlink.net. (See www.behaviorology.org for a full description.)